Press Release

Security Institute Advanced Diploma Level 7
Distance Learning Course

The Security Institute and its learning development partner, Perpetuity Training part of the Linx International Group, are introducing a Level 7 Advanced Diploma in Security Management course via distance learning.

The new course, set at Masters level, is designed to benefit those wishing to take their professional development to the highest levels within both the security profession and the Security Institute.

"Perpetuity Training has been our training partner since 2007 and over the last seven years has excelled in providing training to large numbers of Security professionals which has resulted in their achieving a BTEC Level 3 Certificate and/or BTEC Level 5 Diploma in Security Management," said David Thorp, Managing Director of the Security Institute. "I am confident that this new Level 7 Advanced Diploma will prove to be hugely popular as it takes the Security Institute's qualifications to the next level and meets a definite demand within the higher levels of the security profession."

The Level 7 Advanced Diploma in Security Management is delivered by distance learning and takes nine months to complete. Assessment is through three written assignments; the third of which is on a security management topic of the learner's choice which gives an opportunity to produce a high level body of work of direct relevance to their own organisation, a move which should be of considerable value to employers.

"We appreciate that security professionals have to carefully plan how they spend their time, which is why we are offering the Level 7 Advanced Diploma in Security Management as a distance learning course," said Ken Livingstone, Managing Director of Perpetuity Training. "As such, it offers learners the advantage of being able to study from anywhere in the world and acquire a significant career enhancing qualification."

Full details of the course content and eligibility to participate can be obtained by emailing training@perpetuitytraining.com
